Abstract of the Disclosure

A method for maintaining a system for database management. The method includes recording the addresses of newly created leaf blocks during a split operation on a primary B+tree and maintaining the new addresses in a list as part of primary B+tree metadata.

18